++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells developing as cloud breaks for western areas.

Today:
Mostly cloudy and dry start. Sunny spells will gradually develop as the cloud breaks, chiefly across western areas, whilst further east cloudier conditions linger. Light showers may arrive for eastern areas, mainly across Kent and perhaps east London. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Tonight:
Largely cloudy, with any light showers for eastern areas gradually being replaced by patchy drizzle. Lowest temperatures for western areas, with cloud breaks here and perhaps patchy fog forming. Minimum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Sunday:
Generally cloudy start with early patchy drizzle dying away, and any fog for western areas slowly clearing. Then bright or sunny spells gradually develop, along with perhaps isolated light showers. Maximum temperature 14 deg C (57 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Monday chilly start with patchy fog, this slowly clearing then bright or sunny spells. Tuesday mainly cloudy, with hill fog and drizzle gradually clearing. Wednesday dry, cooler, sunny spells.
